

Language Value (ISSN 1989-7103) www.e-revistas.uji.es/languagevalue welcomes submissions of papers for 2011:

SPECIAL ISSUE: MULTIWORD PATTERNS: CONSIDERING PHRASAL VERBS

This issue addresses the topic of Phrasal Verbs. We invite papers which provide new insights into the following areas of research:

- Teaching phrasal verbs: Methods and approaches
- Encoding and decoding phrasal verbs in English
- Phrasal and prepositional verbs in monolingual and bilingual dictionaries
- Incorporating phrasal verbs in e-dictionaries
- Corpus-based approaches to the analysis of phrasal and prepositional verbs
- Translating phrasal verbs
- Phrasal verb avoidance by learners of English
- Speech and gesture analysis in phrasal verb production

Detailed proposals (500-1,000 words) for articles of c. 5,000-8,000 words, as well as any inquiries regarding the issue, should be sent by email to the journal address (lvalue@uji.es). See the website of the journal for further information for authors (<http://www.e-revistas.uji.es/languagevalue/information/authors>).

The deadline for proposals is 30 May 2011. Authors will receive an email message acknowledging proposal reception in the following two weeks and will be notified about possible acceptance of the article in a maximum period of one month.

This special issue will also publish book and multimedia reviews relevant to the field of Phrasal and prepositional verbs in ELT. Please contact the Editors if you wish to send a copy of the volume, dictionary or other products to be reviewed in the journal.